INTERPORT CRICKETERS RETURNING

Without Flag

The Hong Kong Interport cricket team, under the captaincy of T. A. Pearce, of the Hong Kong C.C. are returning from Shanghai this morning aboard the P. and O. liner Rawalpindi. They have been in the North since October 2 and during their stay played three matches.

Hong Kong lost the Interport by 217 runs but in the subsequent matches defeated the Shanghai R.C. and the Rest of Shanghai.

Among the Colony's batsmen the most successful by far was E. F. Fincher who scored 127 not out in the Interport and 66 against the Shanghai Recreation Club in which match he also captured five wickets.

Pearce also did well. He scored 22 and 61 in the Interport match and also captured six wickets for 77 in Shanghai's second innings. Against the Rest of Shanghai, Pearce scored 101 and was successful with the ball.

The returning cricketers are Pearce, Capt. D. W. Pearce, A. H. Madar, K. Nazarin, E. L. Gosano, C. C. Garthwaite, A. R. Minu, E. F. Fincher, W. H. Colledge, R. Lee, Hon. G. R. Clegg-Hill, and L. D. Kilbee.

Camp followers include Mr. H. R. B. Hancock (President of the H.K.C.C.), Mr. P. E. Baskett (umpire), Mr. A. K. Mackenzie (scorer).

It is of interest to note that in the Interport match a total of 1,121 runs were scored for the loss of 40 wickets making an average of 28 runs per wicket.

The match made history. Shanghai in scoring 478 runs in their first innings broke the record total of 455 for nine wickets scored by Hong Kong in 1909.

The defendant was fined $40.

KIDNAPPING CHARGE

Prison Term For Chinese

Convicted on a charge of kidnapping a four-year-old boy, Li Chat, lamp lighter, was sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Police Court yesterday afternoon.

Det-Insp. Elston conducted the case for the prosecution. The youth was Ngai Chan Ha.

On September 25, the boy went to a tea house on Woosung Street with his grandmother, Loh Hui.

While there, Loh Hui decided to have dinner with her nephew, and they both went to 195, Woosung Street, second floor.

About 4.30 p.m. she missed the boy, and a search was immediately made.

Her nephew went to the police station at 6 p.m., and on his arrival there he found the boy. The defendant was in custody.

A Chinese constable had seen the two walking along Woosung Street hand in hand, and his suspicions were aroused when he saw how cleanly clad the boy was as compared with the defendant's attire.

Defendant denied the charge, and told his story that he had nothing in particular to say.

Mr. Macfadyen: In the absence of any strong contradiction from you against this charge of kidnapping I have no alternative but to convict you on the charge. You probably took the boy on the spur of the moment and I shall treat your case as leniently as I can. But the least sentence I can impose on you is six months.

King George Stamps

VALUABLE ISSUES OF THE REIGN

War And Flying Rarities

TIPS FOR COLLECTORS

Great Britain, as the "Mother Country," has stolen a march on her "family" in the race to issue the first stamps bearing the head of King Edward VIII. by unexpectedly putting the new stamps on sale on September 1, for up to then it seemed that Australia, Canada, and South Africa were likely to run each other very close for that honour.

South Africa is already prepared for the new Empire air mail, instituting the flat rate of 1½d. for letters within the Empire, but naturally cannot release these until the service comes into operation—a date which is very uncertain, but may be next year.

The introduction of King Edward VIII. stamps gives an added interest, and, in some cases, value, to those issued in the twenty-five years of King George's reign. King George himself, of course had a magnificent collection of stamps of the Empire and there seems a certain pathetic irony in the fact that the last special stamps of his reign—those commemorating his Silver Jubilee—are likely to produce several collectors' treasures.

WAR AND FLYING

The Great War and the development of flying—the two most significant events of the period—inevitably were responsible for the highest values among stamps issued by the Empire.

Newfoundland, goal or starting-point of so many trans-Atlantic airman and airwomen, claims both of the two top values. The "Hawker" stamp for correspondence carried by Hawker and Grieve on the first attempted Atlantic flight, in May, 1919, is priced at £350 unused and £220 used. Only ninety-five of this issue were used, eighteen were destroyed, seventy-six were sold in aid of the Marine Disasters Fund, and eleven were presentation copies. The airmen came down in the sea near Ireland and were picked up, but this did not receive recognition as a successful Atlantic flight.

The De Pinedo air mail stamp, a 60 cents overprinted Newfoundland, however, is valued even higher at £500. De Pinedo, it will be recalled, was the famous Italian "ace" who tragically killed three years ago. Third place is probably taken by a Papua air mail stamp worth £100 in pairs.

The Great War, with the occupation and capture of enemy territories demanding emergency stamps, often former issue "converted" on the spot, gave rise to many rarities.

It is usual for the slightest mistake in a stamp to send its value soaring, but this order was reversed in the case of Samoa German stamps overprinted immediately after the island's surrender in August, 1915. Stamps overprinted correctly "G.R.I. One Shilling," of which thirty-five are known to exist, reach a value of £200 whereas those with the mistake "G.R.I. One shillings," are worth only £80.

Other important overprints and surcharges are: Togoland, occupied first by British troops and then by French, £175; Persian stamps overprinted for the occupation of Bushire, from £27 to £250; New Guinea stamps (German) overprinted "G.R.I." the 1s. worth £50 and the 5s. worth £100. Turkish issues, overprinted during the occupation of Baghdad, from £50 to £100.

Philatelists who make a particular feature of "War Stamps" are often willing to pay big sums for stamps which show minute differences from the usual, and the value of these depends entirely on particular circumstances, but among those catalogued, the highest values are probably the Jamaica threepenny purple on lemon, £35, and a few of the Trinidad overprints, at £10.

Jamaica also figures with an important "accidental" rarity—the 1920 type one shilling stamp, with the "frame" inverted, which is valued at about £300.

COLONIAL CENTENARIES

Several colonies have celebrated centenaries, and other anniversaries within this eventful period, and a few of these have reached considerable value: the Falkland Islands "centenary of British occupation," 1933, about £21; the Cyprus "fiftieth anniversary," of

KOWLOON RESIDENTS' ASSOCIATION

Report Of Monthly Meeting

COMPLAINTS RECEIVED

The usual monthly meeting of the General Committee of the Kowloon Residents' Association took place on Monday evening in St. Andrew's Church Hall, Kowloon.

Those present were: Mr. B. Wylie (President), Mr. R. Baldwin (Hon. Secretary), Messrs. Lam Ming-fan, W. C. Folsow, C. E. Terry, H. Gittins, R. Pestonji, F. H. Lacey, L. D'Almada e Castro, J. M. Alves and Rev. J. R. Higgs. Apologies for absence were received from Mrs. E. W. Gardiner, Messrs. F. Mow Fung and Li Chor-chi.

Letters concerning Kowloon Historic Sites, Road Surfacing, Central British School Old Building, Chatham Road Park and Leprosy in Kowloon were read and approved.

It was decided that the Association should donate the sum of $50 to the Street Sweepers' Society to assist in providing a shelter in Kowloon during the coming winter.

COMPLAINTS

The Committee considered a letter from the Deputy Superintendent of Police Kowloon, requesting the Association to give its opinion on the proposed removal of the side route-boards from Kowloon buses. It was agreed that unless the boards could be replaced by front route-boards, they should be retained.

A letter from a Kowloon resident complaining of excessive noise emanating from the Cox's Road Playground was read. The Hon. Secretary reported that he had advised the writer to lodge his complaint in the first instance with the proper authority, it being agreed that the Association could take no further action.

A letter concerning prostitution from another resident was read and it was decided that the Secretary should inform the writer to make his complaint to the Police Department.

KOWLOON JUNIOR SCHOOL

With reference to the Kowloon Junior School it was reported that the accommodation was adequate at the moment. The Sub-Committee regarded it as unnecessary to go ahead with negotiations towards securing new premises and advised that the matter be left in abeyance until such time as an increase in applications for admission necessitate further action.

It was decided to donate the sum of $500 to the King George V. Memorial Fund. It was also decided to write to the Headmaster, Central British School requesting that arrangements be made, if possible, to provide time-time buses for the students residing in Kowloon.

HON. MR. W. H. BELL

Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell, general manager of the Asiatic Petroleum Co., Ltd., is leaving for home on retirement on October 31. He is sailing with Mrs. Bell on the President Coolidge.

British rule," 1928, £8; the And-gua tercentenary issue, 1932 £5 for a set.

Already it is evident, as already stated, that the Jubilee stamps, a notable series in many ways, will produce several rarities, how many and of what importance only the passing of years can show. But the Crown Colonies set, obtainable at face value for about £4, is now only a year after issue, worth probably £10. The one rupee Mauritius, a prize of the series, not included in this total, is worth £3. Even the four Great Britain Jubilee stamps, having a face value of only 5½d., so many thousands of which are heedlessly thrown into wastepaper baskets, are already priced at 1s. 6d. the set. Certain other sets have become valuable: South-West Africa, 50s.; New Zealand, 12s. 6d.; Samoa, 12s. 6d.; Gilbert and Ellice Islands, 25s.; and Australia, 6s.

And now we have keen collectors detecting minute errors in King Edward VIII stamps—but will the special Coronation issues of the Empire produce rarities? They will at least create intense excitement for philatelists—and school boys.

A married woman, Tam Wan, aged 21, was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday suffering from head injuries sustained as the result of a fall near the Kennedy Road Revolver range.

According to a police report, the woman was engaged by the Hop Hing contractors, and was carrying firewood when she accidentally slipped and fell a distance of 60 feet between Bowen Road and Kennedy Road. The accident occurred during the dinner hour at 1.30 p.m.

The Hop Hing contractors are engaged in the construction of a new road to the Military Hospital.

NEW RULES FOR ARMY BANDS

Sequel To Cancelled Contract

New directions governing the acceptance of engagements by military bands are shortly to be issued by the Army Council.

This is the outcome of a War Office inquiry into the situation created by the cancellation of the contract under which members of the band of the Scots Guards were to have appeared at Princes Restaurant, Piccadilly, recently.

The contract was cancelled because of vigorous protests by the Musicians' Union and other interested parties.

Definite regulations are to be laid down. These will supplement King's Regulations, which allowed a wide interpretation by commanding officers in this matter. The question turns wholly upon the interpretation placed upon the one word "entertainment."

It has been left to the discretion of commanding officers to decide, by precedent and tradition, what are the "entertainments" in which a military band, or members of a band, may take part.

War Office officials are now giving full consideration to the conditions under which military bands may play to civil audiences, and the question of what authorities may properly negotiate contracts with military bandmasters.

This will prevent a repetition of such an anomalous situation as arose recently when members of the band of the Grenadier Guards gave programmes at one restaurant in the London area, while members of the band of the Scots Guards were not allowed to accept a similar engagement at another restaurant.

The Health and Strength League will not hold their usual dance on Saturday the 17th October, but they will run their fortnightly dance commencing on the 24th Oct. at Hotel Cecil.

GOOD RECIPES FOR A SUPPER PARTY

CORNISH PASTIES

Cornish pasties will always prove popular, either for picnics or supper. This is my way of making them, so Cornish readers, forgive me if it is not quite in agreement with yours.

Ingredients: 1 lb. shortcrust, 1 lb. minced steak (or cold meat can be used up), three medium-sized raw potatoes, one teaspoonful of chopped onion, salt, pepper and a little cold water.

Chop the peeled potatoes into dice, and mix with the minced beef, onion and seasoning, adding a little water to bind.

Roll the shortcrust out thinly, and cut into rounds with a tea-plate. Put a tablespoonful of the meat mixture in the centre, damp the edges, fold over and pinch together.

Brush the tops over with egg yolk, place on a baking sheet, and bake in a fairly hot oven for three-quarters of an hour.

SQUAB PIES

These pies are tasty and inexpensive. The ingredients are: 1 lb. neck of mutton, 2 medium-sized onions, 1 lb. apples, seasoning, two tablespoonfuls of mushroom ketchup.

Joint the mutton into cutlets and arrange in a buttered dish. Sprinkle with pepper, salt and a pinch of mint, then cover with sliced onions and apples.

Four over 1 pint of Bisto gravy. If you haven't any stock, then cook gently for 1 1/2 hours. Remove the dish from the oven, take out the bones and mix well.

Line small patty tins with shortcrust, half-fill with the meat mixture, then bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes. Mark 6.

CRAB AU GRATIN

Crab fresh or tinned goes well in this tasty dish.

Melt a nut of butter in a pan, stir in a tablespoonful of chopped mushrooms and chopped onion, and fry lightly. Add a cupful of milk or fish stock, a dessert-spoonful of chopped parsley, pepper, salt and the crab.

When heated through, pour into a buttered pie-dish, sprinkle with grated cheese and breadcrumbs, and dot with butter. Leave in a fairly hot oven until the crumbs are browned. Decorate with chopped parsley.

ROLLED SANDWICHES

Take some crab sandwiches when you go picnicking.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SWEETS

CHERRY TRIFLE

Cherry trifle is interesting. A ring sponge cake should be bought or baked. Cut it across in halves or thirds and spread with cherry jam, from which stones have been removed. Soak with sherry or fruit juice, and when soft pour over enough custard to cover it.

When cold cover the cake with cream, whipped with white of egg to a stiff froth, flavoured with icing sugar and vanilla essence and coloured pale pink with carmine. Stick in it halves of blanched almonds which have been cooked a faint brown in the oven. Lastly, fill the centre with tinned or bottled cherries. Boil the syrup with extra sugar and some lemon juice until it is thick, and pour it over the cherries.

PINEAPPLE WHIP

Pineapple whip is a simple but delicious sweet. Put some crushed pineapple at the bottom of individual glasses. Make a pint pineapple jelly with only three-quarters of a pint of water. Let it get cold, and when beginning to set whisk with an egg whisk until thick and creamy. Then stir in thoroughly a cupful of whipped cream, tinned cream, or evaporated milk, flavoured to taste. Fill the glasses with this, and when set put a few pieces of crystallised pineapple on top.

ORANGE SOUFFLES

Orange souffles are a little more complicated to prepare but are a delicious sweet for special occasions. Put the grated rind of two oranges into a double boiler with the juice of four oranges and half a lemon. Add four ounces of castor sugar and the yolks of four eggs. Whisk together until thick and creamy, then pour into a basin and let it get cold. Stir into it one and a half teacups of whipped cream or evaporated milk, then strain into it half an ounce of gelatin which has been dissolved in a teacupful of water. Let it get cold and, when just beginning to set, fold in the whites of the four eggs whisked to a stiff froth. Put into paper cases to set and decorate with whipped cream.

COFFEE MOULDS

Here is a simple made coffee mould. Dissolve half an ounce of powdered gelatin in half a pint of strong, black coffee. Boil half a pint of milk with a pinch of castor sugar. Let milk and coffee cool, then mix them together. Add a few drops of vanilla essence. Strain into a wetted mould and leave to set. Turn out and decorate with whipped cream. Some of the milk can be replaced by cream, or a larger proportion of milk than coffee may be used. In very hot weather slightly more gelatin may be needed.

Finally, here is a milk jelly. Put half a pint packet of strawberry and half a pint packet of raspberry jelly into a bowl. Pour over half a pint of very hot water and stir until dissolved. Let it get cold, then stir in slowly and carefully half a pint of milk. Put in individual glasses to set, and top with cream.

and small portions of orange from which the skin has been removed.

GROUND-RICE MOULD

Here is an interesting way of serving ground-rice mould. Mix two ounces of ground rice to a smooth paste with some milk taken out of a pint. Boil the rest of the milk with a heaped tablespoonful of sugar and a pinch of salt, pour on to the rice, and stir well. Return to the pan and cook gently for ten minutes, stirring all the time. Flavour with a few drops of orange-flower water and vanilla essence, colour with carmine, and pour into a border mould. When set, turn out carefully and fill the centre with stewed, tinned, or bottled fruit.

MARSHMALLOWS

An unusual and simple sweet is made with the aid of marshmallows. Grease a pie-dish and line with sponge cakes which have been cut in slices and spread with apricot jam. Pour over some hot custard. Cover the top with sliced marshmallows. Bake in a moderate oven for about half an hour when the marshmallows should be beginning to brown. Let it get cold before serving.

COFFEE MOULDS

Here is a simple made coffee mould. Dissolve half an ounce of powdered gelatin in half a pint of strong, black coffee. Boil half a pint of milk with a pinch of castor sugar. Let milk and coffee cool, then mix them together. Add a few drops of vanilla essence. Strain into a wetted mould and leave to set. Turn out and decorate with whipped cream. Some of the milk can be replaced by cream, or a larger proportion of milk than coffee may be used. In very hot weather slightly more gelatin may be needed.

Finally, here is a milk jelly. Put half a pint packet of strawberry and half a pint packet of raspberry jelly into a bowl. Pour over half a pint of very hot water and stir until dissolved. Let it get cold, then stir in slowly and carefully half a pint of milk. Put in individual glasses to set, and top with cream.

FILM OF "ANTHONY ADVERSE"

Dickens' Longest Best-Seller

MANY CHARACTERS

"Anthony Adverse" is a screen version of the longest best-seller novel since Charles Dickens's days. Authored by Henry Allen, a plumpish, bespectacled American of 47, who used to get a living writing out advertisements for a gramophone company, it runs to 1,224 pages. Everybody, of course, predicted failure for it on that account. Instead, it evoked a public demand that had the printers and publishers working a 24-hour day.

The writing of the screen version was assigned to 36-year-old Sheridan Gibney, who also used to be an advertisement copy-writer. Gibney plunged into the 1,224 pages, and five months later emerged with a scenario which tells the story of Anthony Adverse in two hours 20 minutes.

Henry Allen insisted on seeing the script before a camera, turned. He knew of the melancholy fate meted out by Hollywood to other novels. Gibney's trembling as he dispatched the script to Allen is easily understood.

For even allowing for Hollywood's well-known pranks, famous writers are notoriously hard to please. Theodore Dreiser threatened legal thunder when he saw the screen version of "An American Tragedy". Spanish bulls couldn't drag Ernest Hemingway to "Farewell to Arms". And our own Bernard Shaw is not given to particularly loud cheers for the film industry.

But with Sheridan Gibney's rendering of "Anthony Adverse," the exception that proves the rule came loitering up on the horizon. Instead of launching himself into a trade of cursing Henry Allen was enthusiastic about the script, and with rare abandon predicted it would make a great picture.

SCORES OF CHARACTERS

The immensity of Sheridan Gibney's task can best be gauged from the fact that the "Anthony Adverse" film embraces 98 roles, of which 78 are important speaking parts.

Remember, everyone of those 78 had to be supplied with dialogue fitting to his or her particular character and of a kind calculated to advance the development of the plot. Little wonder Gibney had to labour 12 hours a day for five months on the job!

The script finished, the burden of translating it to the screen in the form of acceptable entertainment was placed upon the stocky shoulders of Mervyn Le Roy, now one of Hollywood's most brilliant directors, but only a few years ago just a piano act in a cabaret.

Maybe it's just a little incredible that a famous novel can be made into a good film by an ex-advertisement writer and an ex-cabaret pianist—until you remember that the novel's author also sprang from the same valley of obscurity. In that typical situation you have the glamour which inevitably goes with picture-making.

So far we have confined ourselves to the behind-the-scenes angle of "Anthony Adverse." The opposite angle is, perhaps, more exciting, since it presents Fredric March as Anthony Adverse, supported by Olivia de Havilland, Anita Louise, Edmund Gwenn, George Stone, and Claude Rains.

The story traces the life and loves of Anthony Adverse from his birth in the Italian Alps in 1776 to some thirty years later, when Napoleon strikes him on in his important mission to America.

Dear Sirs, I feel that I must write and tell you how glad I am that 'ASPRO' Tablets were ever made or manufactured. It is so true that they break a COLD or 'FLU'. A while ago I caught a very BAD COLD and 'FLU'. I commenced taking 'ASPRO' and also took capsules on sugar. I managed to get to a chemist for some medicine. He asked me what I had been taking. I told him. He then told me not to take much capsules, but to INHALE as much as I liked. 'But,' said he, 'had it not been for ASPRO you would not be in this shop to-day, but in bed.' He was a great believer in 'ASPRO'. Then two weeks ago I caught another BAD COLD. But by taking 'ASPRO' three times a day, I managed to break the cold and get well.

Yours sincerely, (Mrs.) M. FLAVEL

SWATOW LETTER

The Double Tenth Celebration

OFFICIAL LUNCHEON PARTY

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Swatow, Oct. 11.

China's National Day, October 10, was celebrated in a quiet but solemn way. In response to the previous request the display of the National Flag was most evident. A stroll undertaken by our correspondent revealed the fact that from almost every household or building the national flag was fluttering in the wind, flying either from the roof top or the verandah. From every nook and corner a flag was visible, and it was nice to see patches of red and blue from far and near. I have never seen such a display of flags here before.

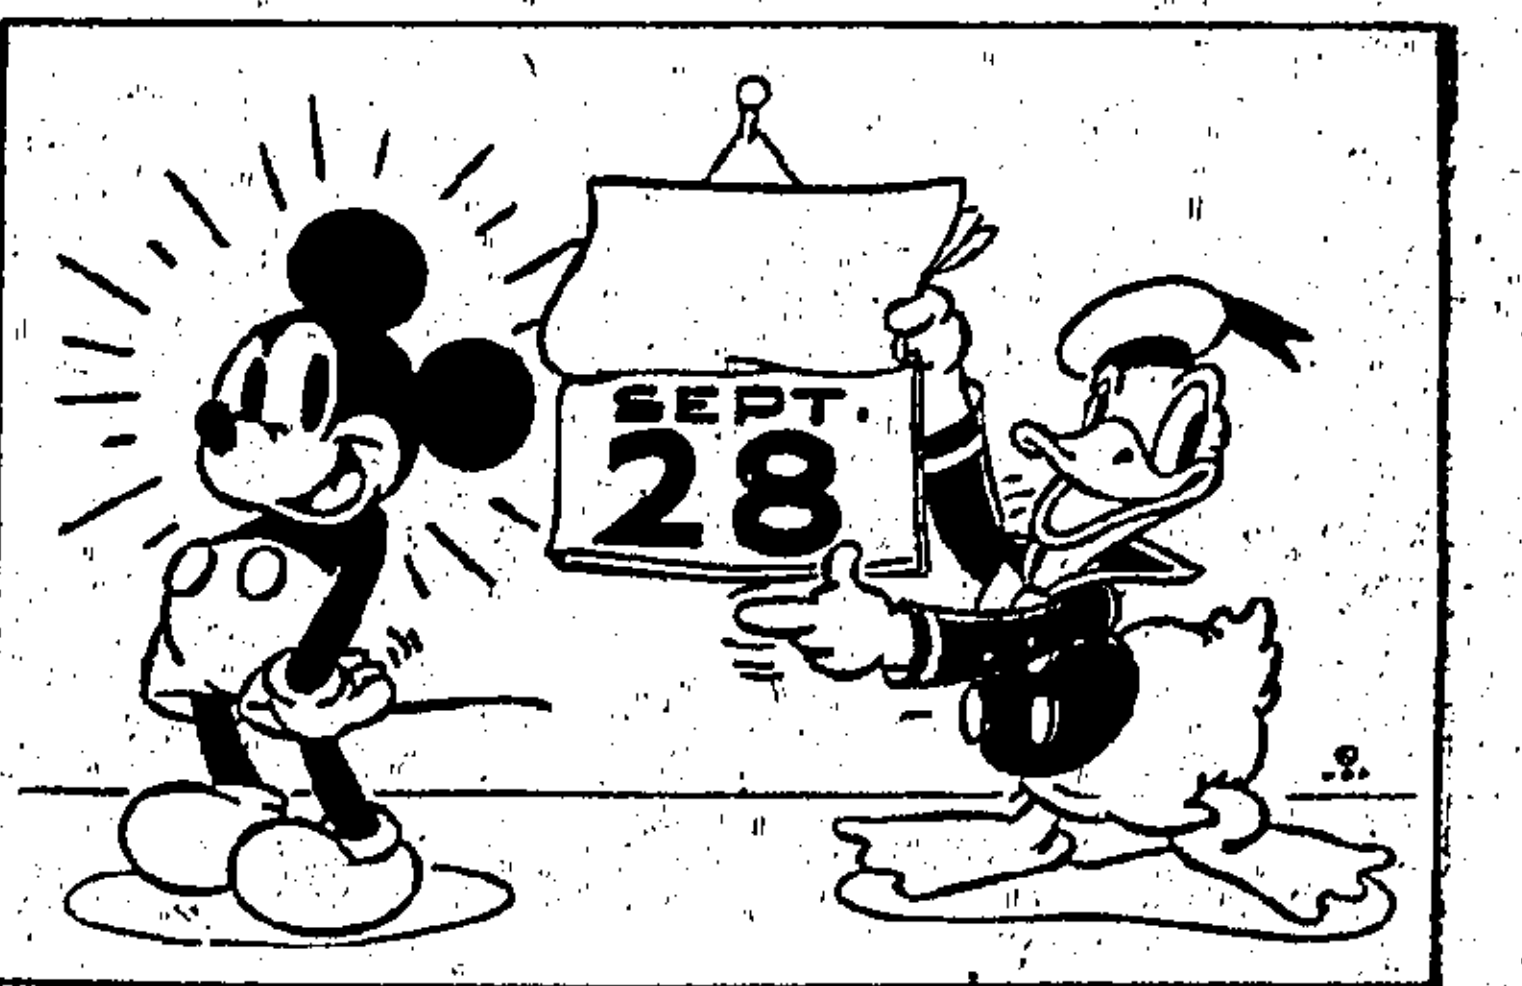

Although a general holiday, it was marked by the absence of a public celebration. Joy-rides—the usual form of holiday-making—were not so conspicuous as in past years, probably due to bad times being experienced. The Customs flagstaff was gallily bagged, also the Seamen's Union, Overseas Association and the Club of the Customs Chinese Staff. At night these places were beautifully illuminated, likewise the various government offices and police stations.

LUNCHEON PARTY

An official luncheon party was given by the Mayor, Mr. Chan Tung Chong, at the Municipality, at which were present members of the Consular Body and other officials. The absence of the British Consul was much regretted, he being unable to attend on account of court mourning. There were also present the new Japanese Consul, Mr. Yamasaki, and some officers from the Japanese warship. The Mayor proposed the toast to the Head of China, Mr. W. F. Tong (the local Salt Commissioner) being the able interpreter. Mon. Salad, the Consul for France and also Senior Consul, replied on behalf of the Consuls to the toast proposed by Mr. S. O. Au, the manager of the Bank of Communications which is establishing a Branch Office here.

CITY OF LONDON MILLIONS

Over 300 Years Of Book-Keeping

The accounts for the Corporation of London, for the year ended March, have been published. The volume is the 303rd of the series extant—1633 to 1935.

A consolidated balance-sheet shows the total operations of the Corporation. Liabilities stand at £17,258,759. Total assets appear at £29,536,800, and general balances at £7,721,953.

The preceding volumes of this vast account are preserved in the vaults of the Guildhall.

In comparison with the present-day totals of the City accounts, the old figures appear Lilliputian. In 1687 the "total of debts" or liabilities were at £41,750 0s. 9d., "Money lent out" was £21,722 6s. 4d., "Fines and Sales" £400 10s., "Rent Farms" £4,059 12s. 6d., "And there is 'Resting in Cash' £5,974 5s. 4d.

Rents have risen precipitously. In 1728 the rent paid by the "Inhabitants of St. Clements Dances Parish without Temple Bar for a Wharfe and Stairs by them rented at the Thames Side near Somerset Place—4d." In some instances, for what appeared to be substantial property the payment was marked down simply as "One Peppercorn."

A hundred and fifteen years later rents had risen considerably. Here is Richard L. Jones's account: "Three houses, Nos. 5, 6, and 7, Gear-street, near the Minorities, lessee Eliza Maria Hodges, commencement of lease midn. 1844, term of years 52, period charged for one year to Christmas, arrears at Christmas, 1855, £15 8s. 10d., charged for 1856, £20 11s. 10d., received in the year 1856, £30 17s. 9d., arrears at Christmas, 1856, £5 2s. 11d."

OLD-TIME ENTRIES

Salaries have risen in sympathy. In 1720 Sir William Thomson, Knight, the Recorder, was paid £80, being one year's salary for services rendered. His deputy was paid £40, and the Chamberlain £50.

In 1856 the "Principal Clerk to the Sitting Justices, per order of the Court of Aldermen," was paid £400 per annum, his assistant £300, and the City Marshal £500. Last year the Clerk to the Lord Mayor was paid £1,250 and his assistant £750. The Recorder was paid £3,000.

Among interesting entries to be found in these volumes are the following: "To Neville Brown, in lieu of providing him with boots, £5." "Uniforms for Marshal, £23—for cocked hat for ditto, £4 4s."

That was in 1843. In 1720, there was "paid the Rt. Hon. Thorold, Knt., Lord Mayor, for the provision of wine for the year of his Mayoralty £80, newspapers and pamphlets, £31 10s., for wax herrings and sturgeons due at Michaelmas, £5 6s. 8d."

In 1836: "To Frederick Marriot, Smith, the like for providing a wrought iron hand-rail with pillars, &c., and fixing it in the Court of Aldermen Room from 14th December to 14th March, 1835, Per order 7th June, 1836, 18s. 6d." "Sheriff, Fines, 1794. Received of Francis Ruddle, Esquire, Citizen and Clothmaker, his fine for refusing to serve the office of Sheriff, being nominated thereto by Paul Le Mosnier, Lord Mayor, £400."

WELCOME HOME TO NAHAS PASHA

Alexandria En Fete

Cairo, Oct. 13.

Tuesday was a gala day in Alexandria, which has never known such celebrations as were staged to welcome home Nabas Pasha after signing the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty in London.

All restaurants and hotels were full to overflowing, the Stock-exchange was closed, and hundreds of launches and small boats went out to meet the Egyptian ship that brought Nabas Pasha from Genoa.
The first official reception took place in a huge tent near the harbour. Here Nabas Pasha made a radio speech in which he stressed how satisfactory it was that the independence of Egypt had been gained through a treaty. The party then proceeded through the city, which was gaily decorated with flags and triumphal arches and lined by thousands of onlookers behind a cordon of police reinforced by Blueshirts.

Premier Nabas Pasha was then received by King Farouk in the Royal Palace. In the evening the

MILLIONAIRE SUED FOR "HEART BALM"

£40,000 Claim By Young Bride's
Husband

PASSIONATE LETTERS READ IN COURT

Did a middle-aged millionaire write seven fiery love-letters to a beautiful young bride inviting her "to play Trüby to his Svengali" in tropical Cuba and learn "voodoo rites of mysterious love"?

This is the question before the Court in a £40,000 claim agast
Gill Whitehouse. Wall-street stockbroker.

It is brought by an advertising man, John Barron—husband of Mrs. Audrey Barron—who alleges that Whitehouse stole the love of his bride, whom he married only two months ago.

Justice Graham, of the Superior Court at White Plains, 25 miles from New York, has called upon Whitehouse to state whether he wrote the letters, and, if he did, what he meant by certain passages.

The husband demands the money as "heart balm" for the loss of his wife, whom he charges with being "harboured" by the millionaire in a palatial mansion.

Whitehouse first met Mrs. Barron on a train bound for New York while she was travelling in from a suburb of fashionable Westchester County.

"HUNGRY FOR ROMANCE"

One extract from the ardent missives alleged to have been sent by Whitehouse to the young bride reads:—

"You're hungry for romance. I know it. I would like to take you to Cuba, where you could thrill in the tom-toms of Bongoes in the toothills."

"In Cuba I could use some hypnotic power over you, so beware—Svengali bids you au revoir."

Another passage from the alleged letters runs as follows:—

"I was so filled with you I was in a trance. I couldn't believe I held you in my arms; that your arms were around me, that I felt your warm, beautiful body, and the exquisite thrill of your kiss, the touch of your darling mouth."

Whitehouse has already denied in court that he wrote the letters, but his denial has not satisfied the judge, who declared that he must answer the question again at the resumption of the case.

Society people from Westchester County filled the courtroom when the letters were read. Several schoolgirls in the crowd fainted.

COMMUNISTS NEAR GERMAN BORDER

Paris, Oct. 13.

The Right wing press deprecates
the activities of the Communists in so close proximity of the German border.

It is declared that the German protest in Paris is "a painful humiliation of the French."

The "Journal des Debats" declares that France has little reason to be proud of the freedom of speech allowed this "camouflaged enemy of the nation." Any Government deserving that name would have prohibited such demonstrations so near the frontier, since they could result in nothing but international tension, which was quite in keeping with the Bolshevik programme. The paper goes on to say that the country can no longer be governed by a group that makes one mistake after another.

ANOTHER MEETING

Paris, Oct. 13.

The Communist demonstrations in Alsace Lorraine, where the Secretary General of the Communist Party, Thorez, pours abuse over Germany, will be followed next Sunday, it is declared by another mass meeting in Mulhausen, also in Alsace, near the German frontier.

Municipality gave a great banquet in honour of Nabas Pasha, and more festivities will follow. The party will then proceed to Cairo, where a large scale reception is also being prepared.

"DANCING LADY"

The appearance together in a picture of Joan Crawford and Clark Gable is an unmistakable sign of screen entertainment above the ordinary run. The popular pair are again seen opposite each other in "Dancing Lady," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's filmization of the widely-read James Warner Bellah novel, which will be the feature attraction to-day at the Majestic Theatre.

From all indications Metro has outdone itself in providing its top-notch stars with a vehicle which from the viewpoint of lavishness, spectacular detail and casting strength leaves practically nothing to be desired. Miss Crawford, who in "Dancing Lady" starts out as a cheap burlesque chorine and ultimately ends up with her name in bright lights on Broadway, has a part which gives her every opportunity for dancing, singing and plenty of display of emotional fireworks.

Gable, likewise, has a "meaty" role as the musical comedy director who at first considers the pushing Miss Crawford as the biggest pest of all his chorines, but is eventually brought to realize that there is more to the girl than a striking figure and particularly adept dancing legs.

The unusually fine supporting cast grouped together for this production includes the fast-rising Franchot Tone, May Robson of "Apple Annie" fame, the irrepressible Winnie Lightner, the world-famed dancer Fred Astaire Robert Benchley and Ted Healy and his stooges. Also in prominent roles are Gloria Foy, Art Jarrett, Grant Mitchell, Maynard Holmes, Nelson Eddy and Sterling Hollywood.

Sammy Lee and Eddie Prinz supervised the musical ensembles of the picture which features a chorus

"THE POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL"

Shirley Temple has the leading role in "The Poor Little Rich Girl," the tiny star's new Fox hit, showing to-day at the King's Theatre by Popular Request.

Shirley is seen as the daughter of Michael Whalen, a wealthy young business man who is far too occupied making money to devote much time to his daughter.

Shirley persuades her daddy that she should be sent to boarding school where she can associate and play with other little children. Whalen agrees, but instead of attending to the task himself, delegates Sara Haden to accompany her to the school.

Waiting for the train, Shirley wanders off. The busy sidewalks of New York lure her on to adventure.

She is entranced by Tony, the organ grinder, and follows him to his home. Tony already has a large family but the new "bambina" so wins him that he lets her stay with his other children.

In the meantime, Miss Haden has been run over by an automobile and during the following days, Shirley's absence goes unreported. Jack Haley and Alice Faye, an out-of-work vaudeville team, notice Shirley singing and dancing. Haley is inspired with the thought that she is just what the act needs, and despite Miss Faye's protestations, she is taken into the act.

The trio are successful in a radio audition and are hired by Claude Gillingwater.

Darryl F. Zanuck selected Irving Cummings as director and B. G. De Sylva associate producer.

"BIG BROWN EYES"

Joan Bennett, more gorgeous than ever, Cary Grant, bigger, handsomer and even more likeable; add a thrilling, exciting comedy drama. One of the swiftest pictures we've come across in many a moon—"Big Brown Eyes" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

Joan, who plays the manicurist, has a scrap with Gary Grant, her cop sweetheart, and walks out on her job, winding up working for a newspaper columnist, just after a mysterious shooting in the park, in which an innocent baby is accidentally killed. Joan's hunches succeed in tying the baby-killing up with a jewel robbery which has taken place, and she cleverly manoeuvres the killers into such a spot that Grant can round 'em all up, with the goods firmly fastened on them.

It's a gripping yarn, with brilliant comedy moments. You'll alternate between chills and howls of laughter—and that's a grand combination!

of one hundred dancers. Songs heard in the production include "Let's Go Bavarian," "Heigh Ho," "Everything I Have Is Yours," "Thank the Rhythm of the Day" and "Dancing Lady," as sung by Miss Crawford, Art Jarrett and Nelson Eddy.

"Dancing Lady" is the first picture to be directed by Robert Z. Leonard since his recent box-office success, "Smilin' Through."

"SNOWED UNDER"

"Snowed Under," the first National picture which is being shown at the Queen's Theatre to-day is one of the year's snappiest and most hilarious comedy romances.

There is a brilliant cast which is headed by George Brent, and three talented and beautiful leading ladies, Genevieve Tobin, Glenda Farrell and Patricia Ellis.

The story, by Lawrence Saunders, centers about the affairs of a philandering playwright who is besieged in his New England farm house retreat by two ex-wives and a new sweetheart. By a strange prank of fate all three turn up at his home the same afternoon; just prior to a terrific blizzard, which leaves them snowed under in the same house for the night.

The first wife has come to help her former mate with a play which he is unable to finish; the second ball and chain wants to put him in jail for failure to pay his alimony, while the sweetheart desires only to spend a pleasant evening. Added to the complications is the presence of the second wife's lawyer, who is in love with the playwright's sweetheart, and a sheriff with a warrant for his arrest.

The troubles that follow, with three jealous women at the man's throat lead to hilarious situations. The tangled skein of love is finally straightened out, however, in a most amazing climax.

In the cast are Frank McHugh as the sheriff, John Eldredge as the lawyer, Porter Hall as a New York producer, and Helen Lowell in the role of a former housekeeper for the playwright.

Raymond Enright directed.

"SANDERS OF THE RIVER"

Fifteen thousand miles were flown to obtain the African scenes for "Sanders of the River," the new Korda film which is coming to the Star Theatre on Sunday.

This is the first time, it is believed, that a British film unit of such large dimensions has flown from London to the location and back.

Special Imperial Airways machines were used for the purpose.

Besides taking the film party from London and back, they carried members of the unit on a number of trips in Central Africa, in search of suitable filming sites.

The organisation included several tons of talking film apparatus and a large party of experts. Remarkable native scenes were secured.

"Sanders of the River" is an exciting tale of the thrills and comedy of a District Commissioner's job in keeping savage tribes in control.

The film has been adapted from the popular stories of Edgar Wallace, and the leading parts are played by Paul Robeson, Leslie Banks, and Nina Mae McKney.

Others prominent in the cast are Robert Cochrane, Martin Walker, Richard Grey, Marguis de Portago, Tony Wane and Eric Matyrin.

young lady who goes in for a bit of racketeering. Intending at first to use Fred's uncompleted television set as an excuse to promote some money for herself, Bobby changes her mind and really helps Fred finish the apparatus.

The two run into difficulties when they attempt to demonstrate the television outfit for a large broadcasting company, as one of the officials of the company, an unscrupulous fellow, wants to sell the firm a television set that he himself controls.

It is through the television apparatus itself, however, that Fred and Bobby manage to thwart the crooked official and ultimately land him in jail, in a rousing climax.

Also in the cast of "Trapped by Television" are Joyce Compton, Hall Henry Mollison, Wyndie Birch and Robert Strange.

Del Lord directed the screen play by Lee Loch.

Major-General D. J. C. K. Bernard, Director of Recruiting and Organisation at the War Office, when seen by a "Morning Post" representative.

"WHAT WE EXPECTED"

"We are not in the least pessimistic about the enlistments to date," General Bernard said. "They are much what we expected. It is certainly too early to express real satisfaction—or disappointment; we shall know more at the end of another month."

"What we want is a steady inflow of men, which over a period of time may help to improve the position brought about by the shortage of recruits for the Regular Army."

"We are more concerned with getting a steady flow of men over a period than a sudden, immediate rush of recruits which might soon decline."

"One of the main ideas in the mind of the Secretary of State for War in connection with this Supplementary Reserve was that it should be for the seasonal unemployed, for the man who can put in his training between periods of regular employment."

"In this respect it is reassuring to note that most recruits and applications have come from the Northern and Western Commands. It was the industrial areas in North England and South Wales where there is much unemployment."

LORD GRENFELL

The retirement of Lord Grenfell from the Army was gazetted on September 1. A recent "London Gazette" stated:

"The notification regarding the retirement of Lt. The Lord Grenfell dated Sept. 1 is cancelled."

Lord Grenfell, who is 30, holds his commission in the King's Royal Rifle Corps. He is the son of the late, Field-Marshal Lord Grenfell.

ment still which this scheme was designed to attract."

The War Office announces that up to September 12 the numbers enrolled into the National Defence Companies, Territorial Army, were as follows:—

Eastern Command.....	516
Northern Command.....	414
Scottish Command.....	154
Southern Command.....	453
Western Command.....	544

Total.....2,081

In addition there were some 2,500 applications for enrolment still under consideration.

The National Defence Companies are being formed for the purpose of protecting important points in Britain on the threat of and during war. Enrolment began on September 1. The total establishment of these companies is about 8,450.

CHINESE FILM STARS

A foreign dance band will be in attendance. As a novelty, a Cantonese light orchestra will play at intervals the latest Chinese dance music. Refreshments are being supplied by the Hotel management who, in addition to making a concession in their charge, are allowing the promoters a special discount on their tariff.

The function has been arranged by the Committee of the film industry in Hong Kong and South China. Not to be outdone, the actors are helping by undertaking the services of the male staff from bell-hop to waiter and doorman to dish-washer. Mr. Ma Sze Tsang, the greatest of them all, will serve tea and his confreres of the light comedy variety will wait at table in fancy costumes.

Among the ladies who promised to give their services as dance partners are the Misses Wu Tip Ying, Tam Lan Hing (who is Mr. Ma's leading lady), Sheung Hoi Mui (a featured player in "The Romance of the Western Chamber," recently presented by the Chinese Company of the Hong Kong Police Reserve at the King's Theatre), Li Yee Nin, Lam Mui Mui and many others.

The leading directors, who have each given donations of several hundreds of dollars, have allotted to themselves the comparatively easier duties of cloak-room boys. The scenario writers and cameramen will join force with the actors as waiters. Admission will be $1 per head. None of those assisting will receive any remuneration.

The proceeds will be handed over by the Film Industry Committee of Hong Kong and South China to the Hong Kong Chinese General Chamber of Commerce for its Ch'ang Kai Shek Birthday Aeroplane Fund.

ALTITUDE RECORD Pilot Reaches Nine And A Half Miles

GRUELLING EXPERIENCE

Fight To Avoid Suffocation

Squad-Ldr. F. R. D. Swain, of the Experimental Station of the Royal Aircraft Establishment, Farnborough, has regained the world altitude record for Britain.

He reached a height of 49,937ft—nearly 9½ miles—early on Monday morning Sept. 29, exactly three years after Britain lost the record. The previous record was 48,688ft, established last month by a Frenchman, M. Detre.

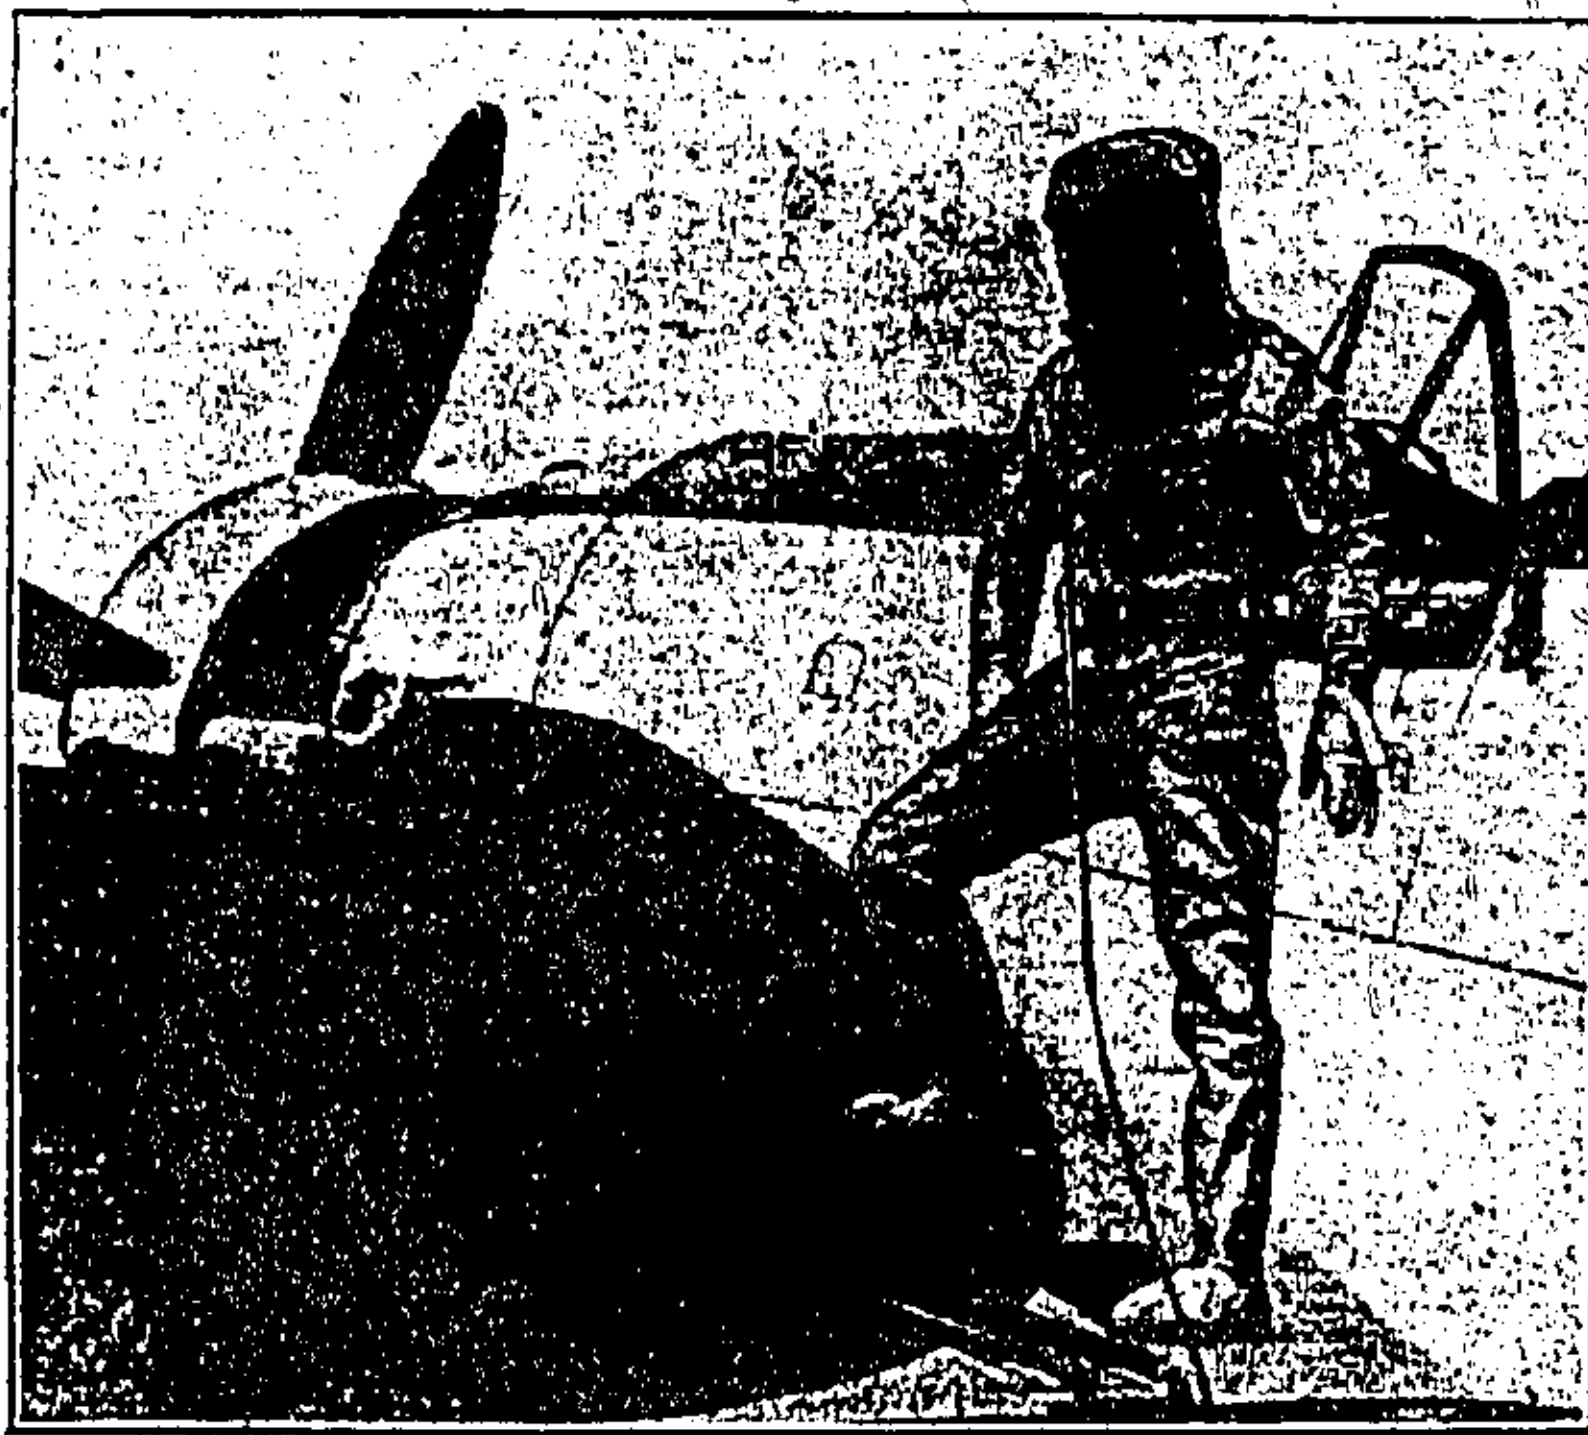

Squad-Ldr. Swain was flying a Bristol 138 machine, with a special Bristol Pegasus engine. He will now return to his ordinary duties at the Experimental Station.

The record was announced by the Air Ministry recently, after the sealed recording instruments had been checked by the National Laboratory.

"I continued losing height, flying in an erratic manner, as I still could not see anything."

"Then I began to feel suffocated. I had the impression I was getting short of oxygen. I was gradually feeling weaker."

"I pressed the release lever which should have opened the cockpit cover, but that failed to function. I tried the zip-cord attached to my suit for such an emergency, but couldn't find the fastener as over my suit I was wearing fighting harness and parachute harness."

Squadron Leader Swain in the sealed flying suit which he wore when making the record high altitude flight. The suit is inflated to a pressure adequate to sustain life at great heights.

Squad-Ldr. Swain told a representative of The Daily Telegraph that he stayed in the air for more than an hour longer than he had anticipated, to be certain that he had broken the record.

In doing so he became so exhausted that he nearly suffocated, and had to cut his way out of his sealed oxygen-supplying pressure suit to obtain fresh air.

DANGER FROM WIND

"I took off from Farnborough at 7.30 a.m.," he said, "and climbed in a series of wide circles to 40,000ft. There was a moderately strong wind blowing from the north-west; these upper winds of ten blow at between 100 and 200 m.p.h., although it is calm below."

"A machine may be blown out to sea, and the chances of reaching land again depend on the amount of petrol left. I tried to climb until I estimated I had three-quarters of an hour's petrol left."

"At 46,000ft I looked down, and below me I could see the whole of the English South Coast, from Margate to Land's End and north almost as far as the Wash. London looked like a toy town, and the Thames a piece of narrow ribbon."

"Looking south, I could see the coast of France and the Channel Islands, looking like small stones in the bed of a river. I felt small and lonely, and had the impression that England was a very small space."

"I continued to climb, keeping my eyes glued on the instruments in front of me. The pressure suit at this stage caused me a little discomfort, and I had some difficulty in moving my arms and legs. There was cramp in my right arm, but I had no difficulty in breathing."

UNABLE TO SEE

"When I had reached 51,000ft on my altimeter, which was not working correctly, I found I could not climb any higher—so I decided to call it a day, throttle back my engine and begin to glide down."

"After gliding about 5,000ft the window of my helmet glazed over completely, and the windows of the cockpit frosted. I was unable to see the ground or my instruments."

"This worried me, as I was uncertain of my direction. All I knew was that I was in the West of England, as I could just see the glare of the sun, I flew towards it knowing that it would be homewards."

"I had to get my head clear of the helmet, as I was gradually getting weaker. I had taken a clasp knife with me, and the only thing to do was to get the knife and cut open the window of the helmet."

"I had great difficulty in doing this because I was feeling so weak, but with a final effort I thrust the knife through and slit the window, tearing it off with my hand."

"As soon as the fresh air got in I felt better. I found I was then 40,000ft, up over Yeovil."

STAYED UP TOO LONG

"I continued to steer an easterly course, losing height until I reached Salisbury Plain, when my petrol gauge showed only two gallons, so I landed at Netheravon. If I had not wasted an hour through not knowing where I was I would have got back to Farnborough."

"Before I went up I was told that my altitude gauge was over-registering, and I stayed up much longer than I had intended to. It was the extra hour and a half at such a height that caused my weakness."

Viscount Swinton, the Air Minister, received a full account of the flight from Squad-Ldr. Swain and personally congratulated him on his fine achievement.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S CLUB MEETING

Voluntary Helpers Thanked

A meeting of the Hong Kong Women's International Club was held yesterday. Mrs. W. I. Gerrard, who has been acting Chairman during the absence from the Colony of Mrs. L. Dunbar, who recently returned, presided at the meeting.

Mrs. Gerrard said:—Before getting down to business, may I be permitted to say how very pleased we all are to have Mrs. Dunbar and Mrs. Biggar back amongst us again. I think all of you will agree that both of them are looking extremely fit and able to cope with the Club's winter programme.

This annual meeting enables us to have a friendly talk over the work done in the Club and affords us opportunity for discussion.

I have much pleasure in calling upon Mrs. Dunbar to address the meeting.

MRS. DUNBAR'S SPEECH

Mrs. Dunbar said:—It is a great pleasure to return to Hong Kong to find our favourite Club running smoothly. I am sure that I speak for Mrs. Biggar as well as for myself when I say that we have missed the club greatly. It is also a pleasure to read the Annual Audit and realize that in spite of the dropping dollar, we have kept our heads up. The net profit shown at the end of the fiscal year, is due in great part, to the wise purchasing of provisions in the Summer of 1935, at a high rate of exchange. These purchases do not show in the audit, but the provisions themselves lasted well into the year ending last June, and it is owing to the foresight of Mrs. Biggar, in making them when the dollar was high, that our balance sheet looks so healthy.

We have come back to the problem of the increased cost of living; provisions have gone up from a hundred, to in some cases, a hundred and fifty per cent; and our task is to continue to give you the same good nourishing and tasteful food, at the same low prices. But Mrs. Biggar has brought back new ideas, and, with your support, I think we can do it. I say with your support, because, although we try to cater to you without profit, the food still has to carry some of the general overhead of the club.

FOOD MUST PAY

You have all seen the annual audit, but I don't know how many of you can read a balance sheet and make sense of it; so I will try to simplify it for you. In the first place, although we have just over five hundred members, they are never all present in the Colony, and paying dues, at the same time. Last year the monthly average of dues paid was $418; our monthly rental is $375, and the light bill averages about $45; hence the dues just about pay the general upkeep of the rooms, with nothing left over for furniture renewals, stationery, etc., which are part of the general expenses of the club. The food therefore, must pay, not only the cost of the raw ingredients, which is what our Honorary Auditor means by the item, "To refreshments," but the servants' wages, and the fuel bill for the cooking. Wages amount to a little more than $1200 a year, and the fuel bill to about $500. There is, then, $1,700 a year to be charged against the food, in addition to the item on the balance sheet, which is, this year, $8037.89. You will note that the net profit on the year's running is somewhat less than the profit on the food; and if you deduct about $500 from the food profit, which represents the profit on our baking of cakes, for outside orders there is very little left of profit on meals.

FLUCTUATING DOLLAR

With our fluctuating dollar, we must have a margin of safety, as we have little to fall back on, in case of running at a loss. We have a small capital, $10,000, which is invested, and brings interest of a little less than $400 a year. This interest is kept in a separate fund, from which we are able to assist girls in need of temporary help.

I have said that we would endeavour, with your support, to keep the food up to standard, and down in price. The figures I have given you will help you to realize that the greater the number of tiffin sold, regularly, each day, the easier it is to do this. Wages and fuel remain a stationary charge against the food; the more tiffin we sell on which to spread

AMBULANCE ATTENDANT IMPRISONED

Woman Also Accused
Of Stealing

Hui Shun, 35, ambulance attendant, and Li Fong, 28, kept woman, 190 Johnson Road, were charged before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy, yesterday, for larceny of a leather wallet, containing $4, and a metal watch from a roof in Gloucester Road, on October 11.

Inspector A. E. Carey said that the complainant was an unemployed seaman. On October 9, he met the second defendant on a train car, travelling towards the Fire Station. When they arrived at the Station they walked to the Yau-mat Ferry.

At first the complainant said that he was going to Shamshui-po but changed his mind when the defendant said that she was going to Yau-mat, and accompanied her there.

On October 11, about 4.30 p.m. the complainant went to 119, Johnson Road and called on the second defendant. About 6.30 p.m. the defendant and the complainant went on a roof in Gloucester Road. Ten minutes later the first defendant appeared with a torch and shone it in the complainant's face and said, "search."

The first defendant took his wallet and watch and handed them to the second defendant who ran down the stairs, while first defendant gave the complainant a push and made his escape.

The complainant went to Tai Hang Police Station and reported. Enquiries were made and the first defendant was arrested at 119, Johnson Road.

Inspector Carey pointed out that the first defendant was employed in the ambulance section of the Fire Brigade for six years. His record was not satisfactory, and that he kept the second defendant.

First defendant was sentenced to six months' hard labour, and the second defendant to three months' hard labour.

this charge, the smaller in proportion it will be.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS

I must remind you too, and I do so in all modesty, because my own work in the Club is such a small part, that if it were not for the volunteer workers who man the cash desk and counter every day, it would be impossible to have this Club at all. Even if we had the income to employ a professional steward, housekeeper, matron, or book-keeper, we would never receive from such a one, the loyal service that we do from our volunteer staff. You could not, for any salary, find a woman with the talent for catering that Mrs. Biggar has. And as for our hard-working Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Denison, no mere accountant would do what she does for the Club.

During the year we received, as was announced at the time, a gift of $1,000 from Mr. Tang Shiu Kin, to be used for some lasting reminder of our Founder, Lady Southern. With that in mind, we rented a matched for the Summer to see if that was the right use for the money; if it had been popular, the intention was to acquire a site, and build a permanent shed for the Club.

But two months trial gave such discouraging results that we gave up the rented shed, and have, for the time at least, given up the idea of a permanent one. Lady Southern was greatly in favour of the idea, and is disappointed that it did not work out. We have asked her for suggestions for the use of the money, but she has been too busy getting ready for her new home, to give it sufficient thought, as yet. We hope to hear from her before the end of the year.

LIBRARY POPULAR

The library is becoming more and more popular, and we are discussing the advisability of buying two or three new books each month for it. When this is done, the new books will be subject to the seven day rule in use in all club libraries.

In closing, I tender my thanks to Mrs. Gerrard, who so ably carried on for me this Summer; to Mrs. Fraser, who filled Mrs. Biggar's place for several months, and to all the members of the committee, and all the helpers at counter and desk without whose labours, as I said before, we should not have this club. Mrs. Denison has tendered the Club's thanks to Mr. Black, our Honorary Auditor, but I take this occasion to thank him myself. (Applause).

COLOUR BLINDED

It is a pleasant commentary on human nature that huge sections of humanity seem to find a satisfying outlet for their passions through the medium of colour.

It is when they become colour blinded that the commentary is not so pleasant, for the ugliness of intolerance beggars description.

Nothing now arouses men's passions so much as the question what name should be given to their particular brand of intolerance. The unhappy Spanish experience has shown that there exists a tendency in all countries to divide up into Communists and Fascists and to help Communists and Fascists elsewhere at the price of civil and external war. Yet few have taken the trouble to understand the ideas behind the labels which inflame large sections of the population to such a degree that they are ready to fly to arms in defence of what they imagine to be their "doctrine."

Though, philosophically speaking, the difference between Communism and Fascism doubtless is immense, many of the partisans of one or the other regime, outside Russia and Italy, resemble each other in their actual mentality. At the present time, whenever there is occasion for a struggle between the rival forces, they appear bent only on the extermination of their adversaries. Either side would impose a rigorous dictatorship. Every liberty would be suppressed in the name of freedom. War would be waged in the name of peace. There is no length to which human folly will not go when these banners of Communism and Fascism are waved.

If it is singular that precisely when there is more than ever a clamour and a genuine desire for peace, when international institutions are formed to organize peace, when mass meetings, petitions, plebiscites, resolutions, express this universal demand for peace, the factor on which our fathers believed peace to depend, is in danger of disappearing altogether from the civilized earth.

Tolerance is essential in all human relations. Tolerance has hitherto been cultivated by all enlightened men. Nothing could be more regrettable and fatal than the supersession of the traditional teaching of tolerance.

We must again learn that which the nineteenth century knew and we have momentarily forgotten—that men are entitled to possess contrary opinions on every subject, and that, if they are wise, they will come to a friendly agreement to disagree. Instead of vainly endeavouring to impose their opinions on their fellows by forceful methods, they would do well to try to understand the opposite viewpoint. There may be good even in the opponent's political beliefs. There is just a possibility that he may be right. At least fist-cuffs, prisons, executions, persecutions, rifles, bombing planes and battleships will not decide the issue.

Is it true that the world is ranging itself on two sides, as the

RETURN OF OLD
COLONIESCampaign To Be Modified

Berlin, Oct. 13. It is believed that Herr Adolf Hitler, Germany's Chancellor, has decided to curtail severely the activities of the German Colonial Association, which has been agitating for the return of the "lost colonies," principally in Africa and now under British mandate.

The rumour is that he will dissolve the association altogether, but this is not confirmed.

It is believed that even if dissolution is not announced, the publicity of the association will be put in virtual cold storage, at least temporarily.

SECRET MEETING

Berlin, Oct. 13. The closest secrecy, arousing the keenest interest, surrounds the conference which Herr Adolf Hitler has called at Berchtesgaden with his Minister of Propaganda, Dr. Josef Goebbels, and the Ministers of the three fighting services and other key men of the Government.

The only hint of the subjects to be discussed is contained in the recent suggestion of a re-building plan for Berlin, but as the last meeting between Herr Hitler and his chief advisers preceded the institution of the two-year military service law there is now considerable speculation about the possibility of a new campaign for colonies.

COLONIAL ISSUE

Berlin, Oct. 13.

It is understood that Germany's colonial policy will be discussed at the conference at Berchtesgaden. It is believed that the conservative group, which favours friendship with Great Britain, has won the day, and it has been decided not to force the colonial issue too much at present.

Reuters.

Reds and Whites ranged themselves in Spain, and that the "next war" will be fought to determine whether Red is a better colour than White? Surely the fatuity of such discussions, even in debating societies, much less in the trenches or in the air, will become apparent.

The monstrous crime, which men who are normally sane and pacific, violently declare themselves ready to commit—namely, that of risking humanity's future by conflict to save a dogma (which dogma they would be unable to define)—cannot be perpetrated.

In time men will remember once more the need of tolerance, which at present appears to them to be an old-fashioned virtue. They will rediscover that it is an indispensable virtue in a world which longs for peace.

S.R. (A) v. S.R. (B)

The mid-week Spoon and Practice Shoot, held yesterday afternoon on the Army Ranges at Kowloon City, was again attended by a very large number of competitors, well over 100 in number, and in order to make a change in the ordinary Conditions of Shooting, it was decided that on this occasion, shooting should be held under the same conditions as those obtaining at the Imperial Meeting at home for the "St. George's Vase."

These conditions stipulate that two sighting shots, and ten rounds to count, shall be fired at 300 yards and 600 yards respectively, and yesterday the great difference between shooting at the 200 yards target and that used at the 300 yards, quickly became apparent.

Weather conditions were ideal until about 5 o'clock, when the sky became somewhat overclouded, and a haze was very noticeable in front of the targets.

As will be seen from the results given below, there were very few good scores at 300 yards, Major Edwards, R.E., being a noticeable exception in this respect, with a fine score of 47. Lieut. Ratcliffe of the 1st Bn. Royal Ulster Rifles, and C.Q.M.S. Wallace of the same unit, follow with scores of 45 each, after which there were numerous totals of 44 downwards.

After the normal shooting had been completed, an interesting competition was carried out between companies of the 2nd Bn. Royal Welch Fusiliers, the object being to ascertain how those shooting with the aperture sight and sling, fared as compared with those using the ordinary Service Rifle in a shoot which involved rapid fire, and therefore rapidity of aim. Each company accordingly had one team shooting with the "1914" rifle, and one using the rifle "as issued," and after a close contest in which there was much tie-shooting, the team from the Headquarters Wing using the rifle "as issued" defeated their opponents who were armed with the "1914" weapon.

We are asked to state that the new issue of the Association's "Bulletin" is now ready for distribution, and that affiliated units and clubs therefore should get in touch, with the Honorary Secretary, as early as possible, in order that the necessary arrangements may be made for the copies to be in the hands of those concerned without delay.

It is worthy of note, as showing the interest which is being taken at home in the "Bisley" type of shooting, that a banquet is being held next week in London (under the auspices of the premier Rifle Club in the United Kingdom, the English Rifle Club), which has become so popular that a very large number of Bisley riflemen have applied to attend.

Among the many guests who have accepted the Club's official invitations are: Rt. Hon. A. Duff Cooper, Secretary of State for War; Admiral of the Fleet Sir Ernie Chatfield, First Sea Lord; Field Sir Cyril Deverell, Chief of the Imperial General Staff; Air-Chief-Marshal Sir E. L. Ellington, Chief of the Air Staff; General Sir Walter M. St. G. Kirke, Director-General of the Territorial Army.

The leading scores made yesterday afternoon on the Kowloon Ranges are as follows:—

GODLESS MOVEMENT

Warsaw, Oct. 13. The members of the Soviet Russian "Godless federation" have been ordered to pay 50 kopeks more a month for the erection of homes for the "victims of the struggle for freedom" in Spain. The first such home will bear the name of the well-known Spanish Communist woman agitator "La Pasionaria." In these homes it is intended to train 3,000 "Godless Children" to be pioneers of the "Godless movement." In the hope of gaining the Spanish Government's recognition of the scheme, the Council named Premier Largo Caballero "honorary member" of the "Godless federation," and in recognition of his fight against the church, his portrait will hang in every meeting place of the "Godless federation."

COMMUNIST ATTACK ON GERMANY

PROTEST LODGED IN PARIS

French And Italian Press Comment

(Hong Kong Daily Press' Special)

Paris, October 14.

The entire French press discusses animatedly on Wednesday morning the step taken on Monday night by the German Charge d'Affaires at the Quay d'Orsay in regard to the abusive attack on the Fuehrer and the German people on Saturday night at Strassburg by the Secretary General of the Communist Party, Thorez.

The "Matin" speaks of the German note as couched purposely in restrained and polite language, and expresses the opinion that the warning issued to the French Government must open the eyes of those in authoritative positions to the peril of allowing Moscow's agents on behalf of Stalin to commit provocative actions capable of leading to the gravest diplomatic complications and even to conflicts, as the only ones to profit by such actions are the men of the Third International.

The "Petit Parisien" endeavours to evade the responsibility of the issue by stressing that Thorez is not a member of the French Government, which cannot be made responsible for his words. The "Excelsior" declares that the Quay d'Orsay considers the incident as closed.

The "Journal" publishes a report of its Berlin correspondent, warning its readers against underestimating the seriousness of the incident. The correspondent adds that the Strassburg speech of Thorez will not remain without consequences.

The "Echo de Paris" thinks that Blum's mistakes do not justify German diplomatic action. The Communist operation was such a fiasco that there is no reason for using it to drive a bargain with France by attaching the slightest importance to the incident.

The "Petit Journal" is indignant at the action of the German Charge d'Affaires which it describes as "intolerable interference."

ROME PRESS VIEWS

Rome, Oct. 14. The news of the protest lodged with the Quay d'Orsay by the German Charge d'Affaires against the provocative speech of the Communist Deputy Thorez, is given great prominence here.

The "Popolo di Roma's" special Berlin correspondent again expresses justification at the German protest, and emphasises the dignified attitude of the German press, which, although voicing its indignation in the sharpest terms, nevertheless maintained its self-control.

The Paris correspondent of the "Messagers" describes the Communist action as "international provocation," whose intention it was to accelerate the difference between "Communist France" and "Hitler Germany."

The Paris representative of the "Popolo di Roma" writes that a profound impression was made in France by the German protest. The cautious attitude taken up by the French Government was another piece of evidence that the Quay d'Orsay was actually a victim of Communist agitation against Germany, the provocative policy of the Communists being exactly opposite to that which the French Foreign Minister desires to take up, but was prevented from doing by systematic Communist obstruction.

REBELS NEAR MADRID

General Advance Delayed

London, Oct. 13.

Another day has passed without the opening of the insurgent attack on Madrid, and reports of fresh skirmishes around the Spanish capital indicate that General Francisco Franco, the rebel commander-in-chief, is not ready to order a general advance.

The insurgents now occupy five of the principal sectors running clock-wise around Madrid from the south to the north-east, but it is believed the Madrid-Valencia Railway is still working.

The insurgents claim to have made a further air raid upon Aranjuez Station, a vital junction of the railway.

It appears that the Rightists are hoping to cut this communication before beginning the advance on Madrid itself.

Madrid Defence Measures

Madrid, Oct. 13.

Food rationing, whereby it is hoped to abolish finally the unwieldy queues which daily have waited outside provision stores, begins in the capital to-morrow.

A new order has been issued under which no householder is allowed more than one mattress and two blankets for each member of his family, and any excess bedding must be handed over to the Government for the use of the militia. The burning topic now is the defence of the city, which every edition of every newspaper is urging.

Courts martial, sitting in every prison in Madrid, continue to function, while another court is to be established to deal with cases of high treason among persons other than military officers.

Twenty-seven persons were sentenced to death in the People's Court at Albacete for firing at a troop train en route to suppress an insurgent rising in Melilla.

The evacuation of children, mostly orphans of militia-men or the children of refugees from the surrounding country, continues from Madrid to the coast. Some 600 left yesterday for Murcia.

SUBMARINE WARFARE

Attack On Merchant Vessels

RULES ACCEPTED BY POWERS

London, Oct. 14.

Rules governing the conduct of submarines in time of war including the provision that they may not sink or disable a merchant vessel without first placing her company and passengers in a place of safety were embodied in part four of the London Naval Treaty of 1930.

The rules are binding in perpetuity between the Governments of the United States, Britain and Japan which ratified the treaty.

The French and Italian Governments, while in sympathy with the rules, withheld ratification owing to their objections to other parts of the treaty. By the protocol now to be signed, France and Italy formally accept the rules as binding upon themselves in the same way as upon the other three powers.

It is intended that adherence of all other naval powers shall be invited with the object that the rules shall eventually become embodied in international law as universally accepted.

BUCCANERING WITH DISCRETION

JAPAN'S REASON FOR WALKING DELICATELY

"London Times" Comment

London, October 14.

Japan is buccanering with discretion, remarks the "Times" in commenting on a Peking dispatch surveying Japan's westerly sphere of influence beyond the Great Wall.

It is true that in the Far East the good opinion of the West is courted less than five years ago, but the respectability cloak in which Japan is isolated without any friends she cannot afford to discard even when her ill-considered actions are dictated by motives (primarily of self-defence against the Soviets) which may command a certain amount of sympathy in Europe.

The second more potential reason for walking delicately is Japan's anxiety to avoid a final outrage on the susceptibilities of China which may precipitate an armed conflict. Even in her rashest mood Japan will not at present be provoked to armed intervention in North China under war conditions.

Few things are better to illustrate the limitations of the Japanese as imperialists than the lines on which their Mongol policy has developed. They have neither established their sphere of influence on a genuine nationalist revival between the Mongols nor won the confidence of the people. It is impossible to view without compassion the present situation of the Mongols who have become pawns in a game whose rewards, if any, are certainly not for them, concludes the journal.

KOWLOON CHESS CLUB REPORT

Year's Activities Reviewed

The thirteenth annual report of the Kowloon Chess Club states:—

COLONY CHAMPIONSHIP

The Open Chess Championship was formerly run by the now defunct Hong Kong Chess Club and was revived in 1926 by the Kowloon Chess Club. It has been held annually ever since. After fruitless efforts in past years a Joint Committee for the management of the Championship was formed this year consisting of two representatives of the Victoria Chess Club and two of the Kowloon Chess Club and one joint Honorary Secretary and Treasurer. Originally a cup was presented in 1928 by the "South China Morning Post" for the Championship, but this was eventually won outright by C. M. Sequeira.

Last year our Club started a subscription to buy a new, permanent trophy with the result that $59 were subscribed by chess players and $33.14 were "inherited" from the now defunct Hong Kong Chess Club, so that $152.14 were available for the Championship Fund.

A new trophy was designed by our Vice-President, J. S. Smith, and made by Messrs. Lane Crawford, Ltd. It is an unique, ornamental article, with various chess pieces of silver mounted on a blackwood base, and a chess board in the background. On the white squares of the board will be engraved the names of the various winners, so that the trophy will last for 32 years, before the squares are all utilised.

There were only four competitors for the Championship. It is regretted that our Champion exponent, Mr. C. M. Sequeira, was prevented from entering the competition due to ill health. Two rounds were played, a few of the games were left unplayed. Mr. V. Rush was the winner as noted below:

HEADQUARTERS

We have had the use of the Central British School hall in Nathan Road for our meetings since 1928 thanks to the kindness and enthusiasm of our past Presidents, Mr. G. F. Nightingale and Mr. J. Ralston, and our present President, Rev. G. E. S. Upsell. Due to the kindness of Rev. G. E. S. Upsell the Club will continue to hold its meetings in the new school at Argyle Street. It is hoped that the members will show their appreciation of this move by giving the Club their every support by attending the chess meetings regularly and introducing new members.

Our fourth Annual Dinner took place on December 10th at the Peninsula Hotel with its usual success. 14 of our members were present, including our President, Rev. G. E. S. Upsell, who welcomed Mr. W. B. Clark, of the Victoria Chess Club. Prizes won during the year were presented by our President to the successful competitors. Friendly games were played before and after the dinner.

During the year under review we had three friendly encounters with the Victoria Chess Club. For the first time since the two Clubs have been playing against each other, the Islanders beat us on Dec. 12th last year winning by five games to three. We met the Victoria Chess Club again at the

INTERNATIONAL BOWLS TOURNEY

The second round of the International Lawn Bowls tournament will be played off on the Kowloon Bowling Green Club ground on Sunday, October 18, commencing at 2.45 p.m.

The draw resulted in England meeting Scotland and Malaya meeting Portugal.

Gloucester Hotel on April 14th. This time we were more fortunate than on the previous occasion; we won by 6½ points to 1½. On the third occasion, on May 19th, we won again from the Islanders, scoring 5½ points to 2½. On Dec. 12th and on May 19th we were invited by the Victoria Chess Club, whereas on April 14th we were the hosts.

At the close of the season, on July 4th, we had a friendly match with a visiting team of chess players from Canton, headed by Mr. E. Ammann, at the Peninsula Hotel. A dinner was also held. The visitors lost to us by 2 to 4 points. It is planned to pay a return visit to Canton.

Our good wishes go with members who resigned during the year: Dr. H. D. Matthews, our Hon. Treasurer, resigned in February upon leaving the Colony. In Dr. Matthews we lost one of the keenest members. Mr. B. Stickland resigned upon transfer home. Mr. G. Magnus left for Shanghai.

New members welcomed during the year were: Messrs. W. Fox, G. Kaye, H. C. Macnamara and G. Magnus. We enjoyed a very successful season. The teams received good support from members. The bi-weekly meetings were attended by a small but regular number of members, including our strongest players, so that the possibility of improving one's standard of chess by instructive games was offered. Unfortunately the tournaments did not attract as many of our members as your Committee had hoped.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual general meeting will be held at the Central British School, Argyle Street, Kowloon, on Friday, October 23 at 6 p.m.

FRED PERRY

Vancouver, Oct. 13.
Fred Perry, the famous English tennis ace, interviewed before his departure for Seattle to-day, said he might play in one more Davis Cup tournament, but that would be the last.

There is no more fun in tournament tennis, he said, which is hard work with nothing to gain and everything to lose.

"From now on I'm not playing tennis for my health," declared the world's greatest amateur.

WENTWORTH

Adams Breaks Record

THEN TAKES NINE
AT ONE HOLE

A belated yet consoling success after a season of disappointments has come to T. H. Cotton (Waterloo, Brussels), former British open golf champion. He won the Dunlop-Metropolitan tournament at Wentworth recently with a score of 281 for 72 holes and thoroughly deserved the congratulations offered at the conclusion of a brilliant display. He was beaten by two strokes in the open championship and was defeated narrowly in half a dozen other big tournaments in which he seemed unable to support his magnificent iron play with accurate putting. At Wentworth, in a field which included all the chief prize-winners in the year's leading events, Cotton had his last chance of restoring his prestige, and he took it. On a course of 6,700 yards, regarded by all competitors as equal to any championship links in its testing carries and exacting approaches, Cotton had rounds of 72, 68, 70, and 71 and beat his partner, R. Whitcombe, and A. J. Lacey by three strokes for first place and a prize of £150. "At last I have won something," exclaimed Cotton as he walked off the last green in the knowledge that he could not be beaten. "I have tried so much this season, and this win makes up for many disappointments."

When play began Cotton and Lacey led the field, each with 140 for 36 holes. Lacey, who putted weakly, was soon out of the running, and Cotton established a lead with an almost faultless 70, which was marred only by one weak approach at the seventeenth and a missed putt at the eighteenth. Whitcombe, however, made the issue unexpectedly close by holing a chip shot for an eagle three at the eighteenth, thus equalling Cotton's record of 68, and finishing only four strokes behind him.

A few minutes later J. Adams (Romford), who had beaten Cotton by one stroke for second place in the open championship and lost to him in a memorable match at Oxhey recently, came in with a 67, a new record, and left himself with a fighting chance. Adams had accomplished the first nine holes in 31 strokes, a record for the tournament, and his fourth round attracted much attention until he met with dire disaster at the fourth, a long hole fringed with trees and crossed by a ditch. Adams put his drive into the ditch, played another ball from the tee, and hooked it into the woods out of bounds. Driving yet again, and therefore playing five from the tee, Adams at last stayed on the fairway, but he holed out in nine, and not even a birdie two at the next hole could restore his vanished hopes.

Meanwhile Cotton and Whitcombe were battling sternly, each conscious that the issue hung upon the result of their two rounds. Whitcombe was short with his second shot to the first hole, but recovered a stroke at the third, where Cotton overran the green. Whitcombe crept to within three strokes of Cotton by holing from ten yards for a birdie two at the short tenth, and later recovered another stroke, but Cotton holed a putt of seven feet for a birdie three at the sixteenth and that settled the issue.

NEW R.A.F. CHAMPION

Flying Officer J. Neal, competing in the event for the first time recently, won the final of the Royal Air Force championship on the Camberley Heath course. Neal defeated Squadron Leader C. H. Hayward, holder of the title, which he has won thirteen times in all, in the 36 holes final by 7 and 6. Neal was 3 up at the end of the first round, and gave a splendid display of putting in the second round. Other results were:

Scratch.—Fl. Lt. Field, 77. Handicap.—Div. 1: Fl. Lt. H. D. Jackman, 77 less 6—71. Div. 2: Air Vice-Marshal C. A. H. Longcroft, 91 less 12—79. National Playing Fields Cup.—Fl. Lt. H. D. Jackman, 77 less 7—70. Best 9 holes.—Div. 1: Sq. Ldr. Bertram, 32 net. Div. 2: Fl. Lt. Lewis, 40 net. Stroke Four-somes.—Wing Comdr. L. H. Slatter and Sq. Ldr. Johnson, 84. Ldr. C. Bompfrey and Sq. Ldr. Bruce, and Wing Comdr. A. E. Barr-Sim and Fl. Lt. G. F. Macpherson tied at 74½ net.

NEW ESSEX
CHAMPION'S
RECORDS

J. H. Rogers, a 21-years-old member of the Chigwell Club, won the Essex Amateur championship at Thorndon Park recently with brilliant rounds of 71 and 72, his total of 143 equalling the record for the event made by B. C. Crouch at Romford in 1929. There was a triple tie for second place. One of the three, K. G. Budd, has been playing serious golf for only six months.

Sixty-eight cards were taken out, Rogers' 71 in the morning equalled the amateur record for the course set up by H. M. Clarke, a member of the local club, this year.

Rogers also assisted his club to win the team title, so that Chigwell now hold the four senior Essex championships—Bert Hodson and Miss Dorrit Wilkins having won the Open and Ladies' titles respectively earlier in the season. Such a performance is without parallel in the history of Essex county golf.

"The fees are a stupid little annoyance that does no good," he stated.

Sir Ernest Benn was speaking at a luncheon given by the Association in honour of Mr. Gilbert T. Hodges, Director and Past-President of the Advertising Association of America.

ATLANTIC SAILED IN 10 TON FISHING BOAT

Three Swedes, Mr. and Mrs. Odenmark and a friend, Mr. John Walter, who has lived in Canada for the last nine years, arrived recently at Brest from Canada on board a 10-ton sailing fishing vessel, the Fleet.

The Fleet left Canada on July 11 last with its three occupants, whose intention was to make for Sweden. Near the Azores, however, their stock of provisions ran low and for a time they had to live on what fish they could catch. Finally, exhausted and with little food, they were forced to put in to Brest. They intend to sell the Fleet at Brest and to travel to Sweden in a passenger steamer.

BRITISH-BUILT DESTROYER FOR POLAND

What is claimed to be one of the two largest, fastest, and most powerfully armed destroyers built in this country, the flotilla leader, O.R.P. Blyakowicz (Ship of the Polish Republic, Lightning), was launched from the yard of J. Samuel White and Company, Limited, at Cowes, Isle of Wight, recently.

She is the sister ship of the O.R.P. Grom (Thunderbolt), which was launched in July last for the Polish Government.

COL. DOWBIGGIN HONOURED

Presentation From Sergeants' Mess

COCKTAIL PARTY

Members of the Sergeants' Mess of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps and friends gathered at Headquarters yesterday afternoon when a presentation of two silver rose bowls from the Sergeants' Mess was made to Lt-Col. H. B. I. Dowbiggin, O.B.E., the retired Commandant of the Corps.

The rose bowls were suitably inscribed and bore the crest of the Corps.

Making the presentation, R.S.M. Parkinson regretted the absence of Major E. J. R. Mitchell, who was unable to attend the function. He paid warm tribute to Col. Dowbiggin's 30 years' service and added that it was probably unequalled in the records of the Colonial Volunteer Corps.

The speaker took the opportunity of welcoming Lt-Col. R. C. B. Anderson, the new Commandant, Capt. G. S. Fritzsche, the Adjutant. The toast of Col. Dowbiggin was enthusiastically drunk with musical honours to the accompaniment of bagpipes played by Pipe Major W. Mackie.

Col. Dowbiggin, replying, expressed thanks for the gifts and added that it was a fine thing for a Commandant to have good officers, but, as he had said on a previous occasion, it was even more essential that he should be backed up by a good band of keen and experienced Sergeants.

"The well-being of any Volunteer Corps," he remarked, "largely rests in the hands of the N.C.O.'s, keen and efficient fellows who are content to stay on in the Corps and influence and lead the younger fellow. I am pleased indeed and proud to have been associated with you all."

A group photograph was taken in the course of the cocktail party.

CHINESE ARRIVALS

The Chinese transports Wing Fook and Hai Jul also arrived on Tuesday.

FAR EASTERN SHIPPING

Receive Less Attention From Parliament

Although ships sailing East of Suez are as important to the Empire as the great liners of the Atlantic, they receive less attention from Parliament and the public, which is surprising in view of the intense competition from foreign subsidised shipping. Developments are taking place in the Far East which will undoubtedly have important repercussions on British shipping, trading on the Pacific routes. Japanese shipowners are receiving every encouragement, financial and other, to build ships that will out rival the tonnage of all competing nations.

JAPANESE AMBITIONS
The motorship Otowasan Maru, recently completed by the Mitsui Bussan Shipyard for services between Japan and the United States, is an example of Japan's mercantile marine ambitions. This ship has been designed as a tanker, but she is capable of carrying general cargo as well as oil, and her service speed is 16½ knots. General cargo ships of speeds ranging from 17 to 20 knots are in course of construction, and according to the latest news from the Far East the construction of two high-speed passenger liners of over 20,000 tons each is in contemplation.

BADMINTON EXHIBITION

Shanghai Visitors
Triumph

A fine exhibition of badminton was witnessed last evening at the Club de Recre when the visitors from Shanghai defeated representative teams of the Colony.

In a mixed doubles match A. G. Meise and Mrs. T. M. Burton (Shanghai) lost one and won one game with S. P. Chan and Miss M. Griffiths 15-11 and 10-15.

Another mixed doubles match of two games was won by L. A. Carvalho and Miss M. Silva from J. G. Forbes and Miss Joan Massey 15-12 and 15-7.

An exhibition game was played between four local players, K. S. Lew and T. C. Lee (University) lost to H. Kew and L. A. Carvalho 15-21.

A. G. Meise (Shanghai) defeated M. A. Oliveira 17-14.

Mrs. T. M. Burton and Miss J. Massey (Shanghai) defeated Miss O. Rebelo and Miss A. MacKenzie 15-13 and 18-17.

A. G. Meise and J. G. Forbes lost to M. A. Oliveira and J. J. Remedios 8-15 and 8-15.

At the conclusion of the matches mementoes were presented to the four Shanghai players who had participated in last night's games.

The Rev. J. R. Higgs, who is the president of the local Badminton Association, gave a short address to the gathering, welcoming the visitors, and thanking all who had helped in bringing the series of matches to such a happy conclusion.

BRIBERY ALLEGED

met the defendant in Pottinger Street, when he asked for the money.

Arrangements were made to pay the money in a lane near the Hong Kong Hotel.

The complainant made a report to the Hon. Mr. T. H. King, Inspector General of Police, outside the Hong Kong Club. They both went up to the station and the case was handed over to Inspector Murphy, who gave the complainant five marked 10 cent pieces.

The defendant failed to appear at the meeting place, and so made a search for him, eventually finding the defendant on traffic duty in Queen's Road. The complainant went up to the defendant and passed the money on to him. He refused the money and told the complainant to meet him in Pottinger Street.

MONEY HANDED OVER
This arrangement was reported to Inspector Murphy. The complainant returned to the meeting place and shortly after 11 a.m. the defendant arrived and the money was handed over. A boy, Tung Sik, saw the money passed, and reported to Inspector Murphy. When the defendant came back to the station off duty he was taken to the traffic office where he was searched, and the marked money was found in his pocket.

The defendant admitted being offered the bribe. Tung Sik said that the defendant made no attempt to arrest the complainant at all.

The complainant, Inspector Murphy and Tung Sik gave evidence after which the hearing was adjourned to Monday.
